

Other Activities:

- Have a work “bee” like people might have done to complete a big job quickly. This could be something as easy as cleaning up the classroom or something more difficult, like making an art project as a group (perhaps making a mural of harvest foods, a quilt made from paper, or whatever your imagination can come up with).
- Take the children to a retirement home or bring a retired person in to talk about chores or school when they were young, about changes in the town where they live, or about the first time they saw television.
- Plan and serve a harvest meal with the help of parents.

IV. Attachments

1. Photograph of the Denison farm, c. 1890
2. Drawings of some of the farmers tools
3. Recipes for several harvest foods